How to affiliate with the Critical Theory Cluster

Email criticaltheory@northwestern.edu to introduce yourself.

You can use the critical theory listserv (critical-theory-cluster@googlegroups.com) to receive and send initiatives for reading groups, workshops, and speakers.

A list of Northwestern's cross-departmental Critical Theory courses is at http://www.wcas.northwestern.edu/criticaltheory/ClusterCourses.htm

Information about Northwestern's Interdisciplinary Graduate Certificate in Critical Theory is at: http://www.wcas.northwestern.edu/criticaltheory/
Over the past three decades, the term “critical theory” has come to designate, particularly in the United States, a type of study that cuts across disciplines to examine the premises, concepts, and categories that structure academic discourse in areas such as literary studies, art history, film studies, history, philosophy, and political theory, to name just a few. Critical theory is therefore not limited to a particular field or even to specific content; it is involved wherever methods, concepts, and social formations are not simply taken for granted but subjected to systematic and rigorous critical reflection.

Some 80-100 students in relevant fields at Northwestern University participate in Northwestern’s Interdisciplinary Cluster in Critical Theory. The cluster provides a thorough introduction to critical theory through interdepartmental course offerings. Exposure to critical theory is highly recommended for students of literature, philosophy, politics, culture, the visual arts, gender and race studies, rhetoric, and society in our post-colonial, post-modern world.

The Cluster offers possibilities for graduate student accreditation in the form of the Interdisciplinary Graduate Certificates in Critical Theory.

It offers a number of forums and venues for intellectual exchange between graduate students and faculty with related interests in different departments and programs. It promotes reading groups, workshops, several other opportunities for graduate students, and a coherent program of interdisciplinary coursework at Northwestern.

Northwestern also offers the Paris Program in Critical Theory, which affords up to five advanced graduate students, from a wide variety of disciplines, a unique opportunity to spend one year in Paris familiarizing themselves with French and European theoretical research.

Among the activities regularly organized by the cluster are: welcome and end of year events for new graduates, faculty-graduate book dialogues, annual "Critical Theory in Critical Times" workshops, annual events organized by Northwestern’s Cornell University School of Criticism and Literary Theory fellowship awardee, visiting speakers including lectures and a workshop with our Max Kade visiting Professors, and an annual tri-university fall doctoral institute rotating between Northwestern University, the University of Frankfurt and the Ecole Normale Supérieure, Paris.

Northwestern’s Weinberg College also offers an undergraduate minor in Critical Theory along with undergraduate reading groups, often conducted in conjunction with graduate students. For more information about the undergraduate minor contact Mark Alznauer (m-alznauer@northwestern.edu) or Michael Loriaux (m-loriaux@northwestern.edu). For information about the graduate cluster, contact the Director, Cristina Lafont and/or one of the Associate Directors, Penelope Deutscher or Peter Fenves.

“The Critical Theory Cluster has helped organize and support an interdisciplinary dissertation writing which has been very helpful for my work...CT is a good source of funding to aid research and the CT program in France offers an exceptional opportunity to work with French critical theory scholars and to master a second language...the workshops and conferences that CT puts on are among the best on campus.” - Charles Clarke, PhD Political Science candidate
The Critical Theory Research Workshop is an interdisciplinary forum beyond the classroom for students, graduate and undergraduate, to share and develop their interests in critical theory. Funding is made in part by the Kaplan Institute, and co-sponsored by the French, German, and Comparative Literary Studies Departments. Graduate students are invited to lead bi-weekly sessions with discussion of individual theorists, often with a proposed reading. Annual events have also included workshops. Lisa Guenther, Vanderbilt University, author of Solitary Confinement: Social Death and its Afterlives and Lynne Huffer, Emory University, author of Mad for Foucault are among the recent visiting speakers. Previously discussed authors have included Butler, Deleuze, Fraser, Bataille, Benjamin, Rorty, Arendt, Adorno, Horkheimer, Badiou, Rancière, and many more. Contact Kenni Zellner at kenterikazellner2016@u.northwestern.edu.

The After-Life of Phenomenology Research Group

In the work of Gilles Deleuze one finds an encounter orchestrated between the phenomenology of Edmund Husserl and Maurice Merleau-Ponty and the vitalism of Henri Bergson, opening a path toward a new form of materialism, which Deleuze calls “transcendental empiricism.” This Deleuzian empiricism, in turn, has been taken up in the last decade by Michel Serres, Quentin Meillassoux, and others. Thus a line can be traced from Bergson to Deleuze to today’s new empiricists and “speculative materialists,” which passes directly through phenomenology. The After-Life of Phenomenology Research group was started by graduate students with interests in this trajectory.

2013-2014 speakers included Souleymane Bachir Diagne (Columbia) and Donna Jones (UC Berkeley) on phenomenology in the work of Bergson and Senghor; Paul Livingston (U New Mexico) on Badiou and phenomenology; and Debbie Goldgaber (Northeastern Illinois) on Derrida. 2014-2015 speakers include William Blattner (Georgetown University) on Heidegger’s objections to Husserl, Ann Murphy (University Rudolf Makkreel (Emory) on hermeneutics. 2015-2016 speakers include Chris Yeomans (Purdue) on Hegel and Daniela Vallega-Neu (University of Oregon) on Nancy and Merleau-Ponty.

The Northwestern University Paris Program in Critical Theory was inaugurated in fall of 2001, under the directorship of Samuel Weber, Avalon Professor of the Humanities at Northwestern University, who brought the program with him from UCLA. It affords up to five highly qualified advanced graduate students from a wide variety of disciplines a unique opportunity to spend one year in Paris familiarizing themselves with French and European theoretical research.

During the Fall quarter, the Program Director leads a weekly research seminar on a question of current concern in contemporary critical theory. The seminar can also serve as a forum for work in progress. The particular topic of the seminar will be determined in consultation with participating students. Some past Paris seminar topics have been: The Politics of Friendship; Animality-Humanity; Theological Economy; Theories of the Event; Singularity; Europe; The Death Penalty. The Program Director also makes the Program a focal point for international exchanges by inviting French and European scholars to participate in informal discussions, both in Paris and, whenever possible, at Northwestern. Students and visiting scholars will continue to present their research in the seminar in Winter and Spring quarters.

For more information go to: http://www.parisprogram.northwestern.edu/. Applications should be submitted electronically by March 1, 2016 to: Dominique Licops: d-licops@northwestern.edu

Goethe University of Frankfurt am Main exchange program

In conjunction with the Exchange Program, we have introduced an optional variation on the already existing Graduate Certificate in Critical Theory: the Graduate Certificate in Critical Theory (Goethe University of Frankfurt am Main Exchange Program). 5 courses are currently required for the existing NU Graduate Certificate in Critical Theory. To complete the Graduate Certificate in Critical Theory (Goethe University of Frankfurt am Main Exchange Program), two of the five courses will be completed through work undertaken at the Goethe University of Frankfurt am Main. The student will i.) undertake the work required for one MA course at U Frankfurt (with graded paper), and ii.) participate for one semester in the doctoral colloquium of the student’s sponsoring professor at Goethe University of Frankfurt am Main or that of an appropriate colleague at Goethe University. The remaining 3 courses will be completed at NU.

For further information, particularly concerning the administrative process and requirements, please contact m-alznauer@northwestern.edu
Germany

Extensive funding is available from the D.A.A.D. for graduate study in Germany. Students interested in German philosophy, critical theory in the German tradition, political theory, comparative literature, Germanistik, critical theatre studies (Theaterwissenschaft), aesthetics, and intersections of philosophy, political, and aesthetic theory may be specially interested in a period of study at the Goethe Universität, Frankfurt am Main, which has a long and famous affiliation with the Frankfurt tradition in critical theory. A number of NU's CT graduate students have incorporated studies at the University of Frankfurt as part of their graduate program. D.A.A.D. funding is available for a number of programs of study in Germany, beginning with D.A.A.D. summer grants. These are often used for summer programs of intensive language study, and provide an excellent foundation to subsequent longer funding (such as one-year stays).

Graduate students affiliated with the critical theory cluster may be eligible for the innovative dual PhD programs that Northwestern has established with the Institut d'Études Politiques de Paris (Sciences Po) and the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (for more info: http://www.ehess.fr/fr/).

These programs are described at: http://global.northwestern.edu/programs/dual-phd-program-institut-detudes-politiques-sciences-po. Proficiency in French is required, but can be acquired with support from the French Interdisciplinary Group.

Domestic Fellowship Opportunity

The Critical Theory cluster administers one sponsored fellowship annually for the School of Criticism and Theory at Cornell University. Funding is provided by Northwestern's Graduate School. The sponsored fellowship covers tuition, accommodation and domestic airfare. You do not need to be an affiliate of the cluster to apply. For more information: http://www.criticaltheory.northwestern.edu/graduate/application.html or email: a-parkinson@northwestern.edu.

Conference Funding Opportunity

Limited conference funding (to a maximum of $300) is available annually to 3-4 graduate students. To apply, email tara.sadera@northwestern.edu with information about the conference, its dates, relevance to the critical theory cluster, and its importance to your research. Explain your connection to the critical theory cluster (such as courses taken, participation in graduate certificate, etc.) and confirmation of acceptance of your paper. Your application is considered by a mini-committee, on a rolling basis. Information about further funding available for graduate students reading papers at conference is available at: http://www.tgs.northwestern.edu/funding/fellowships-and-grants/internal-fgrants/index.html
ACCREDITATION:
THE INTERDISCIPLINARY GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN CRITICAL THEORY

IPCT Certificate Program Requirements

To obtain the IPCT certificate, declare your cluster affiliation to tara.sadera@northwestern.edu. You then complete five courses, at least two of which must be introductory seminars, such as those listed below, or appropriate substitutes.

• Critical Theory and Literary Studies Post-structuralism, cultural studies, and post-colonial theory in literary analysis and theory. The influence of psychoanalysis, Marxism, structuralism, semiotics, and post-structuralist thought on contemporary textual analysis. Cultural critique and context-centered methodologies.

• Critical Theory and Philosophy Themes may include the origins of critical theory in Kant, Hegel, Marx, and Nietzsche; the contemporary re-emergence of critical theory in the work of the Frankfurt School; and/or the poststructuralist thinkers such as Derrida and Nancy.

• Critical Theory and the Study of Politics The concepts of progress and power in politics and in the study of politics: the sources of modern political critique in the Frankfurt School and phenomenology; the critique of positivism in the social sciences; the critique of sovereignty, identity, and race; empire and post-colonial politics.

The remaining three courses must be chosen from a list of seminars designated annually. When you have completed the requirements, send an email to tara.sadera@northwestern.edu, with your transcript attached, identifying the five courses from the approved lists, and where necessary giving information about any claimed substitutions with a short justification.

* Please note that no more than two courses from the student’s degree program may be counted towards the graduate certificate. On review, exceptions to this condition may be made for some cross-listed courses.

“When considering my options for graduate study, Northwestern’s Critical Theory Cluster vaulted the University’s program to the top of my list… “The chance to develop as a sociologist in Northwestern’s excellent sociology department, while continuing to grow as a scholar of critical theory was quite influential in my decision to attend NU. The Cluster’s interdisciplinary network of faculty and students has provided me an instant community of scholars who act as invaluable mentors and resources for my critical theory interests. With its numerous diverse reading groups and fantastic opportunities to learn and conduct research abroad, the Critical Theory Cluster has already, and will, undoubtedly, continue to profoundly shape my graduate experience.”

Critical Theory in Critical Times
Annual Workshop Series

The Critical Theory in Critical Times annual workshop series is a joint initiative of the Center for Global Culture and Communication (CGCC) and the Critical Theory Cluster. The aim of this workshop series is to create a forum for discussion of recently published work in the tradition of critical theory broadly construed. Authors are invited to an in-depth discussion of their scholarly work with specialists in the field and in a small workshop setting. This setting offers an excellent opportunity to faculty and students of the Northwestern community to directly engage in lively discussion with very distinguished critical theorists from around the world. In preparation of the workshop, a reading session is organized among interested NU faculty and students to discuss the work in question.

Why do we urge language training strenuously?

French, German, and Spanish, are three of the languages important to the critical theory tradition. The foreign language training made available by Northwestern University is a valuable part of the conditions offered to its graduate students. It is an opportunity hard to duplicate later in an academic career, with respect to available time for language acquisition, funding, and the quality of the programs. Where you have interests and research involving the work of theorists, authors, and media produced in another language, you should begin your graduate career with the relevant language study.

It also gives some graduate students access to additional lines of full-time research funding (for example, through the D.A.A.D.) both during your graduate career and throughout your academic life. International fellowship and grant opportunities are an increasingly important aspect of academic careers.

We recommend that graduate students begin language training as early as possible. Many graduate students succeed in acquiring two languages while at Northwestern, particularly when they benefit from programs such as a study year abroad with Northwestern’s Paris Program in Critical Theory or in Germany through D.A.A.D. funding- or other overseas study and training opportunities.

Language training is, of course, also a great pleasure, and a relaxing and stimulating complement to graduate coursework and dissertation writing. And, perhaps most importantly: it expands worlds, thought, networks and opportunities in unpredictable ways. It need not be time consuming, and will often (ranging from quicker access to needed material in a foreign language to new fellowship opportunities) gain you time.

“Through the Critical Theory Cluster, I met the most intellectually committed students I know at Northwestern University. It is the best environment to rigorously challenge yourself and connect with a community from diverse academic backgrounds.”

— Chris Hoffman, Northwestern Class of 2014, Former Coordinator of the Critical Theory Reading Group
Opportunities For Graduate Language Study at Northwestern

Graduate students can access courses in Northwestern’s language departments, both during the academic year, and over the summer, only while they are on fellowship. For example: a fifth student who receives funding into the sixth year is not on fellowship in summer between these years, and so cannot enroll in language courses at that time without paying the relevant fees.

Thus we strongly encourage you to take advantage of the opportunities as early as possible. Funding is also sometimes available for participation in summer language immersion institutes in the United States (such as at Middlebury College) and considerable funding is often available for overseas language training: Northwestern’s language teaching faculty are often very well placed to help you plan and access these opportunities.

Options and choices: many graduate students are able to enroll in undergraduate classes through the year. Many languages can be studied intensively over the summer. Some graduate students prefer this option, as it allows language study at a time when they have no other coursework obligations. We recommend both (and all available) options. Occasionally, specialist courses designed to give reading-only competency are available. They are sometimes a good choice. A period of overseas study can be an important means of consolidating your language ability. There are many funding opportunities to support these, most involve your having first acquired an introductory or early intermediate level. Again this gives reason to start relevant language training as early as possible in your graduate enrollment.

The Chicago Area Consortium in German Philosophy

The Chicago Area Consortium in German Philosophy is a group of faculty and graduate students from Chicago area institutions, including Northwestern, DePaul, Loyola, UIC, University of Chicago, and Notre Dame, who share interests in German philosophy from Leibniz to the present. It hosts a workshop every spring, at which area faculty present work in progress with comments from graduate students on a particular theme or thinker (such as phenomenology and Hegel's theoretical philosophy, or German Romanticism) and invites speakers throughout the year. Past speakers have included Steven Crowell, Lanier Anderson, Paul Redding, Jay Bernstein, and Lisa Shabel, this year, 2015-2016 visitors include Paul Guyer and Anthony Koch.

On October 24th-25th, the Midwest Study Group of the North American Kant Society will be meeting at Northwestern University, at the John Evans Alumni Center, 1800 Sheridan Rd. The keynote speaker will be Paul Guyer (Brown University) “Enforcing the Law of Nature: The Background to Kant’s Conception of the Relation Between Morality and Recht.” If you have any questions about the event, please contact Rachel Zuckert at r-zuckert@northwestern.edu.

FIG (French Interdisciplinary Group)/ Critical Theory Cluster Event
Tri-University Critical Theory Dissertation Workshop, with Christoph Menke (Goethe University, Frankfurt) and Marc Crepon (ENS) (organizers include Michael Loriaux, Political Science and Penelope Deutscher, Philosophy) Time/Location TBA
At the start of the 2014-15 academic year, graduate students from Northwestern’s Critical Theory Cluster met with students from the École Normale Supérieure (E.N.S.) and from the Goethe Universität of Frankfurt to participate in Northwestern’s Tri-University Critical Theory Dissertation Workshop (E.N.S., Sep 29 - Oct 2). The NU participants were Caitlyn Doyle, CLS, Hye-Yun Kang, Political Science, Javier Burdman, Political Science, Christine Goding-Doty, African American Studies, and Charles Clarke, Political Science. Accompanying them were Northwestern cluster faculty Penelope Deutscher, Alessia Ricciardi, and Michael Loriaux. Participants also attended Samuel Weber’s Paris Program in Critical Theory seminar, and the E.N.S. conference “Derrida à venir.” The second meeting of the doctoral workshop will take place at Northwestern in 2015-16 (April 27-May 3). Visiting professors joining the visiting graduate students will include Marc Crepon (E.N.S.) and Christoph Menke (Frankfurt).
The Department of Art Theory & Practice at Northwestern University is pleased to announce the appointment of Carolyn Christov-Bakargiev as the Edith Kreeger Wolf Distinguished Visiting Professor. Christov-Bakargiev will be teaching in the Department of Art Theory and Practice for three consecutive fall quarters beginning September 1st, 2013. In addition to her classes, Christov-Bakargiev will make one joint presentation for the Department of Art Theory and Practice and the Block Museum each quarter she teaches.

Christov-Bakargiev is a curator, author and researcher interested in historical avant-garde and contemporary art. She currently the curator of the 14th Istanbul Biennial, a citywide exhibition which will open in September 2015, as well as the Leverhulme Visiting professor for 2014 at the University of Leeds. Named 2012’s most powerful person in the art world by Art Review’s Power 100 listings, Christov-Bakargiev was artistic director of dOCUMENTA (13) from 2008-2012, which took place in Kassel, Germany, and held workshops, seminars and exhibitions in Alexandria, Egypt; Kabul, Afghanistan; and Banff, Canada. Her stewardship of dOCUMENTA(13), considered to be one of the most intellectual and significant periodic exhibitions in the art world, renewed one of the exhibition’s primal intentions to enlist culture as an agent of civic society building, reconstruction, healing and dialogue. Previously she has served as Artistic Director of the 16th Biennale of Sydney (2008) and Chief Curator at the Castello di Rivoli Museum of Contemporary Art (2002-08; interim director 2009). Christov-Bakargiev was also a Senior Curator at P.S. 1 Contemporary Art Center—a MoMa affiliate in New York from 1991-2001. Her books include William Kentridge (1998), Arte Povera (1999), and for dOCUMENTA(13) the 100 Notes–100 Thoughts series as well as The Book of Books (2011–12). Carolyn Christov-Bakargiev will teach, Art 372, "Worlding & Research in Art" in Fall 2015.
Jan Behrs

Jan Behrs is the new DAAD (German Academic Exchange Service) Visiting Associate Professor of German from Kiel, Germany. Before coming to the United States, Professor Behrs taught at the universities of Stuttgart and Kiel and worked as a copy editor in a publishing house. His teaching and research interests include German baroque literature, the sociology of literature, the literary canon and its fringes, and contemporary German literature and film.

In addition to his academic work, Professor Behrs loves to travel (especially to Eastern Europe, Russia, and the Ukraine). He is also an avid theater-goer, attendee of jazz concerts and, as he puts it, "a very non-promising learner of Russian."

Get to know Professor Behrs in the department of German offices, or during Kaffeestunde, or even better, sign up for his 300-level literature class in the fall.

Hans-Jörg Rheinberger

The Department of German is pleased to announce the visit in spring of Max Kade Professor Hans-Jörg Rheinberger. Professor Rheinberger will be teaching undergraduate and graduate classes in the Spring quarter. Other activities will include a public lecture and graduate workshop. The main focus of Professor Rheinberger’s research lies in the history and epistemology of experimentation in the life sciences. By bridging the gap between the study of history and contemporary cutting-edge sciences, such as molecular biology, his work represents an example of trans-disciplinarity as emerging in the present knowledge-based society. The Swiss-born scientist studied philosophy and biology in Tübingen and Berlin, Germany. He received his M.A. in philosophy in 1973, his Ph.D. in biology in 1982, and his habilitation in molecular biology in 1987. He was Assistant Professor at the University of Lübeck, Germany, and Associate Professor at the University of Salzburg, Austria. Since 1997, he has been a Scientific Member of the Max Planck Society and Director at the Max Planck Institute for the History of Science in Berlin.

Hans Jörg Rheinberger has been a fellow of the Institute for Advanced Study in Berlin and of the Collegium Helveticum in Zürich. His translated publications include: An Epistemology of the Concrete: Twentieth-Century Histories of Life and On Historicizing Epistemology: An Essay. He is honorary professor at the Institute for Philosophy and History of Science of the Technical University Berlin, a member of the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of the Sciences, a member of the Leopoldina, the German Academy of Natural Scientists, and a doctor honoris causa at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich.
